

APRIL workshop 2023

with Sue Martin

teaching the Language of Abstractions

In this workshop, you'll take leave of reality and playfully focus on shapes, line, color, value, and texture to create expressive abstract paintings. Some say abstraction looks easy ("My dog could paint that!"), but if you've tried it, you may have experienced that panic of uncertainty as you wonder where to begin, how to achieve balance, and when to declare it finished. It can feel as risky as sky diving, untethered from the reality of your safe landscapes and still lifes. In this workshop, with Sue Martin as your guide, you'll explore processes that feel more liberating than risky, and you'll discover a new language of expression.

Sue Martin is a "second career" artist with 25 years of experience. She works in watercolor, mixed water media, acrylic, and oils, in an evolving visual language of shape, color, and pattern. Sue holds a B.F.A. degree from the U of U and is a signature member of UWS and the Western Federation of Watercolor Societies. For more about Sue and her work, visit her web site: www.suemartinfineart.com.

Saturday, April 15th

9:00 - 4:00 pm (lunch break)

lecture hall

Green Canyon High School

2960 North Wolf Pack Way

North Logan, UT 84341

The cost for workshop:

$30 for UWS members

$40 for non-members

For more information, please contact Brad Kropp at inocybebrad@gmail.com (text 435-754-6023).

You can also register by Paypal through the UWS webpage.